Brief Report

The Economics Department organized a tree plantation drive on August 23, 2023, with the aim of contributing to environmental sustainability and promoting green initiatives within the campus and community.

Objectives

- * To enhance the campus greenery and improve air quality
- * To raise awareness about the importance of trees in mitigating climate change
- * To foster a sense of environmental responsibility among students and faculty

The tree plantation drive was a successful endeavor that not only beautified the campus but also instilled a sense of environmental consciousness among the department members. We are committed to organizing similar initiatives in the future to create a greener and more sustainable future.
